Feature:

1. Simple structure, wide adaptability, small floor space and low noise.
2. The powdery feed and grass powder can be granulated without adding a little liquid, so the water content of the pellet feed is basically the moisture content of the material before granulation, which is more conducive to storage.
3. Higher economic benefits than mixed powdered feed.
4. Working without water, and belongs to dry-input, dry-output, the production of feed pellets with high hardness, smooth surface and internal ripening can improve the digestion and absorption of nutrients.
